Tax and Rev allows extension for disaster relief

SANTA FE—The Taxation and Revenue Department (TRD) allows an extension for individuals and businesses that are taxpayers affected by the Trout and Cotton fires.

Taxpayers affected by the recent fires with various business tax returns with normal due dates of June 25 and July 25 can now file those returns by September 25. Those with an estimated personal income tax or corporate income tax payment normally due on June 16, have an extended due date of September 16. The extension will result in no penalty being imposed for a late filed return or for a late payment. State law does not allow the Department to waive interest.

Information about who qualifies and other details is available in Bulletin 100.46 available in the publications folder on the Forms & Publications webpage.

Affected taxpayers taking advantage of the state extension should send a letter or email notifying the TRD that they qualify for the extension and provide support that they are an affected taxpayer before they file or after they receive a notice with late payment penalty and interest.

Taxpayers can also complete Form RPD-41096, Extension of Time to File. A link to that form and other general information about tax extensions is available on the "Extension of Time to File" webpage.

Forms or letters may be emailed to the following addresses to expedite processing:
